If anyone in the church would be able to help they would appreciate it. Please contact Ron Melton or Herb Batson.

Coping with calamity begins in the mind. It begins with a determination to see it through to the end—and enjoy the journey in spite of it all.

Coping considers all the circumstances, places faith in God, and turns its back to the wind. Paul did just that. And at the end of his life, he gave an awesome testimony: "I am already being poured out like a drink offering, and the time has come for my departure. I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. Now there is in store for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will award to me on that day—and not only to me, but also to all who have longed for his appearing" (2 Timothy 4:6-8)

Like it or not, people around us are watching. They want to see us carry the torch, even in the rain. They want to know if there are "batteries included" in that faith of ours. They want to know if religion works when the opposition comes along.

Adversity or not, we cannot afford to drop the torch of faith. It must be passed along, not snuffed out by the circumstances we encounter.
